

This privacy notice discloses the privacy practices for compassionatedivorce.us and applies solely to information collected by this website.

What information do we collect?

Compassionate Divorce™ DOES NOT collect information from you when you browse her website. However, search engines, data collection agencies and web service providers may collect information from you independently from us. You may, however, visit her website or any other websites anonymously.

What is your information used for?

Any of the information collected may be used in one of the following ways:

- To personalize your experience (your information may help us to better respond to your individual needs)
- To improve searching websites
- To make customer preferences finite

How can your information be protected?

Compassionate Divorce™ does not collect information but since others may, you may choose to browse anonymously, change your browser settings to prevent metadata collection or use privacy software that maintains the safety of your personal information and prevents data collection and cookie tracking.

Do we use cookies?

NO, WE DO NOT!!!. However, others may. Cookies are small files that search engines, marketing companies or service providers transfer to your computer's hard drive through web browsers (if you allow this) and they enable these sites or service providers to recognize your browser and capture and remember certain information or preferences. Cookies may be used to understand and save your preferences for web searches and website visits to compile aggregate data about site traffic and site interaction so that they can offer better search experiences and display advertising that is specifically targeted to your needs and location. Third-party service providers may be contracted by search engines, marketing companies and service providers to assist them in better understanding site visitor needs. We do not have any current agreement for these service providers to collect or use the information collected while visiting our website.

Do we disclose any information to outside parties?

We DO NOT sell, trade, or otherwise transfer to outside parties your identifiable information, but others may. This does not include trusted third parties who allow our website to function on the internet and who conduct business or service with you. We do not disclose private or property information to others unless expressed in writing or to comply with law enforcement or legal actions. However, non-personally identifiable visitor information may be obtained and disclosed by other parties for marketing, advertising or other commercial uses.

Third party links

Occasionally, at our discretion, we may include or offer third party products or services on our website. These third party sites have separate and independent privacy policies. We therefore have no responsibility or liability for the content and activities of these linked sites. Nonetheless, we seek to protect the integrity of our site and welcome any feedback about these sites.

California Online Privacy Protection Act Compliance

Because we value your privacy, we have taken the necessary precautions to be in compliance with the California Online Privacy Protection Act. We therefore will not distribute your personal information to outside parties without your written consent.
